

STAND UP FOR QUALITY CARE & QUALITY JOBS AT VITA HOMES

Workers at Somerton Center and Garden Spring Center have provided quality care to seniors in North Philly for decades, while earning a good wage and affordable health care for their own families.

Now the two homes have been bought by Vita, a new company that has cut some senior workers' pay by up to $11,000 a year, and is refusing to participate in union funds that ensured caregivers have quality, affordable health care, and training and education opportunities.

Stand with us as we demand that Vita commit to quality care for residents, and good jobs for the dedicated staff at Somerton and Garden Spring.
